SULLY FOR SALE

THIS estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty-two miles from Alexandria and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry. Plaster of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and those now untilld, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed; the out-houses are all conveniently situated; those for farming purposes are expensive, and excellent in their kind.

From the New York Mercantile Advertiser.

The News by the Harlequin.—The letters received by this vessel contain information of the failure of the harvest in England to such an extent as to leave a deficiency of one third of the usual quantity of grain, and that the remainder will not be sufficient for the general consumption. It was, in consequence, calculated that an order of council would be issued on the 15th of November (on which day the previous regulation will expire) for opening the ports of the United Kingdom to the free admission of grain, flour, and bread stuffs generally.

We have been favoured with the following extract from a letter to a respectable Mercantile house in this city, dated Liverpool, October 14.

"A very great and important change having taken place in our corn market, which leaves no doubt of the opening of the ports on the 15th of next month, we consider it of so much importance, not only as it respects grain and flour, but as to its influence on the exchange, the shippers interest, and the general intercourse between the two countries, that we have chartered a fast sailing vessel for the express purpose of giving our friends the earliest and fullest information on this interesting subject.

"American wheat would now sell for 16s per 70lbs, and flour at 65s. per bbl. On completing our usual surveys of the crops, we find the produce so decidedly defective, that on an accurate comparison of the result, we consider the present as scarcely two thirds of last year's crop, without taking into view the great inferiority of the quality and the produce in flour, from the grain being lean and in very bad condition. During the progress of our survey, and since, we find that scarcely one third of the wheat is yet sown, not more than one tenth of the barley, but few of the oats, and none of the beans. The barley being all a broad in the great corn districts, is considered a ruined crop. Potatoes will also be very deficient, and from the lateness of the season and the still exposed state of so great a portion of the crops, there is no calculating what further injury may yet be done, but the injury already sustained is so great, that we shall probably want any quantity of wheat and flour which is likely to be shipped.

"The season is now too far advanced to admit of our receiving any supplies of consequence from the Baltic, and in Holland the prices are high. In many parts of Italy, and in the Mediterranean the crops are so defective that they are likely to stand in need of large supplies.

"From the extremely damp and unsound state of the new grain, good dry sound foreign wheat will be particularly valuable, and much wanted for several months to come. Rice has also advanced to 36s. per cwt. in bond, and this article is rising rapidly in all the continental markets.

"Cotton Upland 17½ to 20 1-4; New Orleans 18 to 25, in fair demand for consumption, and some for export; Sea Islands, 28s. to 35s. 5d. very dull, and prices looking down. Ashes, pots, 55s. to 55s. per cwt.—in bond 45s. to 44s. dull and prices looking down; pearls, 66s. a 69s. advancing. Turpentine, 12s. 6d. Tar, 12s. 6d. to 18s. steady. Bark, 15s. 6d. a 19s. very dull."

[In consequence of the intelligence by the Harlequin from Liverpool, flour rose yesterday in this market, (New York) from 2 to 3 dollars a barrel; a number of expresses were dispatched to the southward, and a pilot boat sailed for Charleston, yesterday morning.]

Specie plenty.—Grain scarce.—More specie has arrived at Norfolk in the John and Adeline from Oporto. The market may now be said to be glutted with what was recently termed the Precious Metals.

Nassau, Oct. 25.

The following is an extract of a letter from Havana, dated 2d Oct.

"The minds of my good countrymen, like my own are daily becoming more disgusted with the present oppressive state of things, and unless some change for the better takes place, I must abandon my friends while the liberty of breathing is yet left to me. The Insurgents announce their intention of landing on this island, and placing us in a state of independence like themselves: the report is much circulated in this city, and affords us some consolation under our afflictions.

The total discomfiture of the Insurgents under Bolivar is confirmed. In consequence of which, the Governor of Caracas, from the friendship existing between the courts of Paris and Madrid, had sent to Martinique, proposing to shut all the ports on the Main against all nations except French vessels from that island. An arrangement to this effect was to take place immediately. Sir George Gregor, who commanded the Insurgents after the desertion of Bolivar, was killed in the last action with the Royalists.

A French frigate and brig of war arrived on the 3th ult. at Port-au-Prince from the west, with two commissioners from the French government, and eight gentlemen formerly planter of the island. They landed under a flag of truce; but the object of their mission had not transpired.

The Jamaica Gazette contains several instances of piracy on British vessels, by Carthaginian cruisers, or others under the insurgent flag. We observe the capture of one by H. M. frigate La Pique, and that she had arrived at Port Royal. The notice inserted respecting the capture of the British schooner Perthshire, serves to shew the use that adventurers from the U. States make of a flag that has been unaccountably suffered so long to protect and encourage a system of robbery.

(The following is an extract from the advertisement above alluded to, and is signed by Hector Mitchell. The Hunter formerly traded between this port and Savannah—

Kingston, (Jam.) Oct. 17.

Five Hundred Dollars Reward.

Whereas, the British schooner Perthshire of this port, with a cargo of 20,000 in value, was captured on the 21st of last month, off Morant Bay, and within eight miles of the shore, by a schooner of the U. States of America, called the Hunter, which, under the direction of two owners John Johnson and Charles Conageline, of Baltimore, was fitted out within these two months at Aux Cayes, for piratical purposes, and commanded by one Samuel Brown, who sent the Perthshire to the Isle of Vache, where she was visited by the aforesaid owners, who came out to her from Aux Cayes, and sacked the passenger's luggage, stripped them of their clothes and every trifling appendage, condemned the vessel and cargo according to piratical custom, and being immediately joined by Brown and their consort, they transferred the guns, arms, &c, and crew to the Perthshire, which they then called the new Gen. Arismendi, pretending to be under the Venezuela flag and with her went upon a cruise.

Description of the scho. Perthshire.

A beautiful pilot boat American built, about two years old, flushed deck, square stern and rather narrow, knee head cut to resemble a dragon, bull's eye, on the quarter deck, close bulwarks all round, but rather low, coppered, and when skillfully managed sails uncommonly fast, main-mast rakes more and is more taut than the fore mast, carries a fore-top sail, which is remarkable by not being deep in proportion to its breadth, and therefore looks somewhat squat measures per register 79 feet 9 inches length on deck, 22 feet 2 inches breadth, 8 feet 11 inches hold, and is 165 tons.

From St. Domingo.

Extract of a letter from St. Domingo, dated 8th Oct.

Privateers are fitting out in every port here, with Buenos, Margareta, and Venezuelan commissions. They are in general superior vessels, well armed, and are manned by British and Americans.

"General Misa, nephew of the celebrated Guerilla General has come to Port-au-Prince from the U. States. He arrived in a beautiful ship, accompanied by two brig, with 8000 stand of arms, ammunition, field pieces, &c. &c. A number of French officers are embarking from America to join the independents."

Boston, November 15.

Capt. Edes, who arrived at this port on Thursday last from the Pacific ocean, was at Attoo and saw King Tamoree. He inquired particularly after his son, but captain Edes could give him no information. Capt. E. relates the following anecdote; capt. Ebbe's, in the ship Enterprise, of New York, was at Attoo in February last, and during a violent gale lost all his anchors but one. The ship was saved by King Tamoree, who sent a boat in the height of the gale with a large anchor on board, and thus enabled him to ride it out.

An American ship, and the lives of several American seamen have thus been preserved by the humane exertions of King Tamoree. Let every American then remember that Tamoree has a son in this country, that for several years past has been enduring all the hardships attendant upon the life of a common sailor on board our men of war, and was badly wounded; that he has recently been taken under the protection of a society of benevolent gentlemen, and sent to Connecticut to be educated, with a view to his return to his native country. We trust that when our countrymen are called upon to contribute for the education of Heathen Youth, these facts will not be forgotten.

How can we better manifest our gratitude to the father, than by restoring to him under such circumstances his long lost son.—Ibid

The battle between the Boxer and Enterprise, and the Gueriere and Algerine frigate.

The legislature of this commonwealth convened at the state house in this town yesterday, and the two houses, in convention were met by the governor at half past 12 o'clock. His speech will be found in this paper. After some remarks upon the special object of the session, the choice of electors, and upon the subject of the Separation of Maine, which will claim their attention, he informs the legislature that in conformity with the advice of the council, he had deferred the appointment of an agent to present the claims of the commonwealth on the general government, because the head of the treasury department had already decided that the claims of the state cannot be allowed until some legislative provision is first made, he stated that he had received from the ordinance department of the U. States information that the commonwealth's quota of arms and equipments are ready for delivery—that he had seen, during the past autumn, many regiments and brigades of the militia of the state and had found them in good condition—and that he had been informed by Mr. Monroe that some lands on Moose Island belonging to citizens of this state, of which they had been deprived by the government of Canada, had been given up to the owners.

CONGRESSMEN.

We remain without correct information of the result of the late choice of representatives to congress, excepting that the hon. Messrs. Lloyd, Mills, Strong and Adams, federal; & Messrs. Holmes and Shaw, democratic, are elected.

It is said, that Mr. Fuller, in Middlesex: Mr. Silsby, in South Essex; Mr. Morton, in Bristol, democratic; and Mr. Wood, federal, in Plymouth districts, are chosen. In Norfolk it is the general opinion a choice has not been made. In Barnstable the votes were much divided, two federal candidates having been run. In Essex North, there has been no choice, the suffrages in that highly federal district having been divided among four candidates.

From Maine the votes are but few. The democrats who voted for the Compensation Law are opposed; and in several districts another trial must be had.

In the Fifth Eastern, in nine towns, Mr. Rice, the federal candidate, had 388 votes. Mr. Parker 359; and about 50 scattered. In the sixth no choice has been made.

As soon as we can obtain the official returns we shall publish them.

Nothing can be more idle, than the assertion, that the late balloting for members of congress, indicates a change of political principle. The returns when published will shew this. The truth is, that the great body of the federalists, assured that Mr. Monroe must be the next President, were indifferent whether his majority of supporters in the house were ten or an hundred. Besides this, a number of members of congress, as has been the case almost universally, had made themselves extremely unpopular in joining democracy in its most obnoxious proceeding—the Compensation bill—and this was not discovered until too late for remedy by resignation. Every man of calculation knows, that it is to these, and not to any change of political principle, that the late balloting must be attributed.

The publishers of newspapers throughout the United States, should feel indebted to the Postmaster General for the instructions which he has issued to the Deputy Postmasters of the country. The duty thereby imposed would doubtless have been recognized by the framers of the law had it occurred to the framers of the law at the proper time: but the Postmaster General has wisely supplied the public good, and saved the newspapers a loss which they would have suffered for want of the extension they will now punctually receive. We hope it will be extensively adopted by those whom it so materially benefits.

ALEXANDRIA.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

The publishers of newspapers throughout the United States, will no doubt feel indebted to the Postmaster General for the instructions which he issues to the Deputy Postmasters in this day's paper. The duty thereby enjoined would doubtless have been required by law had it occurred to the framers thereof at the proper time; but the Postmaster General had wisely supplied the omission. The order will be productive of public good, and save the printers of newspapers a loss which they have heretofore suffered for want of the information they will now punctually receive. We hope it will be extensively circulated by those whom it so materially benefits.

The several Postmasters are hereby required, whenever a person, to whom a newspaper is addressed, ceases to take it out of the Post Office, to advise the editor of the paper thereof; and to add, if known whether the person is dead, moved away, or merely refuses. The mail is burdened with many newspapers, which are a loss to the proprietors as well as to the public.

The directors of the Bank of Pennsylvania this morning elected Elisha Chauncey, Esq. Cashier of that bank in the place of Jonathan Smith, Esq. resigned, now Cashier of the Bank of the United States. The votes were for some time divided between Mr. Chauncey and George Vaux, Esq. neither having the majority required. Finally, as we understand, Mr. Chauncey received twelve votes, and Mr. Vaux only eight which decided the election in favour of the former.

U. S. Gazette.

COURT MARTIAL. at New York, on Maj. General Gaines; he is honorably acquitted of all the charges alleged against him, which appeared to the court to be "frivolous, and without support and foundation." The judgement has been approved by the president; and the major has, of course, resumed the command of the eastern section of the southern division of the army.

From letters by the ship Bayard, capt. Rich, from St. Petersburg, we have copied the following:

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1-14. Our trade continues dull. The stock of hemp on hand is considerable, and clean hemp may now be obtained low. Flax is more firmly maintained, but very little doing, as there are no British ships in port. No purchases of iron have lately taken place.

The number of American vessels arrived here amount to 58—of which 55 have sailed and three are loading. They have carried 5600 tons of bar iron; 1300 do. sheet iron; 2100 do. clean hemp; 280 do. out shot, and 75 do. half clean; 1900 do. cullen; 1,020,000 quills; 64,000 hare skins; 61,000 tumbler; 18,500 pieces of sail cloth; 12,100 pieces of Raven's duck; 10,100 pieces of Flems; 64,000 yards of diaper; and 18,300 yard-cloth.

We have reason to think the price of hemp and flax in winter will be low, and that contracts may be made at reasonable rates.

Prices at Cadiz, Oct. 4th. Fish $5. Rice 3 1/2-4 1/2, none in market; Tobacco 37; Staves, W. O. Pipe 70 a 90; Flour 6 1/2; Corn 1 3/4; Beef 9; Pork 12; Pitch 3 1/2 dull.

The Legislature of this state adjourned on Tuesday, to meet again on the second Tuesday of January.

N. F. Gazette.

An act to suppress duelling, has lately passed the Legislature of this state. By this act any person who may fight a duel wherein death shall ensue, shall be incapable of holding or being elected to any post of profit, or emolument; civil or military, under this state. The bearer of a challenge is subject to the same penalty. It is required of members of the Legislature, officers civil and military (except town officers,) attorneys and counsellors, to take an oath additional to that prescribed by law, that they have not been engaged in a duel, or in any other manner in violation of this law since the 1st July, 1816, nor will be concerned, directly or indirectly in any duel during the continuance of the said act, and while an inhabitant of this state.—ibid.

A letter from New Orleans, dated October 12, states the arrival there of the Carthaginian privateer Constitution, belonging to Brion's fleet. She had, with two others, been cruising in the Gulf, and put in to refit. She spoke two schooners of Aury's fleet, in which the black mutineers were proceeding to St. Domingo. Four Spanish royal naval detachments were cruising about the shores of East Florida, near Mantanzas, Cape Antonio, Vera Cruz, and Matagorda. No intelligence had been received of Herrera, Humbert, and others who sailed from Orleans for Matagorda, some time ago. It was feared that they were lost at sea or captured by the Spaniards. Accounts from Boquilla, to Sept. 7, represent the revolutionary affairs badly, and that Serrano, had with 400 men deserted to the Royalists, and had routed a republican force under Goereno. We hope, that this is a more sombre picture than the reality justifies. Ball Pat.

The following interesting letter from an officer on board the Queen Charlotte dated the day after the battle, we copy from the London Courier;

"My dear Father—In consequence of a dead foul wind, we did not reach Algiers until yesterday, and having, as a matter of form, sent a flag of truce to offer terms, we had the felicity, at ten minutes before noon, of seeing the boat return with a signal, that the terms were rejected. A light wind happily springing up, we bore away to engage, and at ten minutes before 5 P. M. our position was taken in a stable, worthy even our brave and gallant chief, within 100 feet of the Mole Head. The manner of doing this, was admired by the whole fleet. Previously to our anchoring, Lord Exmouth gave as a short but appropriate speech, which was answered by three joyful cheers, and down we all flew to our quarters, full of glee. The stupid Mahometans allowed us to anchor without the least molestation merely warning us off by a discharge of two guns at the Superb. They were afraid, it seems, that we should escape. They said that they did not like to alarm us too soon; for as they had once driven away 25 sail of the Spanish line, they thought it would be strange if they did not soon exterminate the remainder. Little very little, did they know how to estimate the spirit of John Bull! The action commenced at ten minutes before three, by a tremendous broadside from the Queen Charlotte, which brought down a part of the Mole Head. The firing was continued from both sides with wonderful effect for four hours, and with not less spirit by the rest of the squadron, the Dutch bearing their part nobly. Most of the batteries of the time were silenced, and one frigate which had been boarded in a gallant manner by our barge was in flames. The battle was not suspended until 9 P. M. when all that floated of the Algerines was in a glorious blaze, and which presented the most sublime and awful scene that imagination can conceive. The night in itself was pitchy dark, but such was the effect of this grand illumination, that soon, with its most brilliant sun could not have displayed a more effulgent light. To describe what was so encouraging to us, and disastrous to the enemy, is impossible. What a charming panorama it would make, with Barker's skill. The heroism of the Algerines deserved a better cause. Although their ships were wrapped in flames, and showers of musket balls were still pouring upon them, they were seen, as if in the heart of the fire, endeavouring to extinguish it; but they fell victims to their zeal. Man is man, and may be lamented, however wrong and however ferocious. The burning frigate, which had been abandoned to her fate, drifted near our starboard quarter to the imminent peril of our ship.

The men at the after guns felt as if almost actually in the fire; but thanks be to Providence, a light breeze springing up drove her away. We now rested for a few moments, and this pause gave us an opportunity to look about us. The explosion of three of the enemy's magazines added to the beauty and grandeur of a spectacle which no pen could adequately describe. The action was renewed, and continued until half past 11 P. M. when we hauled out of the Mole, made sail and anchored in the offing, followed by the squadron. The firing ended at midnight. We all flatter ourselves, that we have gained the heart and friendship of our beloved admiral, who seemed delighted."

To the planters of Louisiana, the following extract from Maves Travels, in the interior of Brazil, is particularly recommended.

"During my stay at Barro, I was presented with some singular fine fruit, equal in flavor to fresh almonds, and capable of being preserved by drying, so as to become a valuable article of commerce. Having never before heard of this fruit, I am induced to give a brief account of it. The exterior substance is about the size of a full grown cocoa-nut with the rind on; say nine or ten inches long, and five or six in the thickest part.

It grows suspended from the branch by a very slender but strong stem. This shell is full of kernels to the number of from thirty to fifty, of the shape of almonds, but twice, or thrice the size, disposed in ranges or layers and separated from each other by a white pithy substance. As these kernels ripen, the top of the shell which appears like a lid, is gradually forced open, and when they are at full maturity the largest part, which contains them, separates and falls to the ground.

The trees at the season of shedding their fruits, are frequented by wild hogs, herds of monkeys, flocks of parrots, and other birds, which never quit them while any of these delicious nuts remain. I was credibly informed, that some trees have been known to produce above a ton weight in a season; one of the nuts I preserved and brought with me, which I sent to that enlightened philosopher, and eminent naturalist, Sir Joseph Banks."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.

Our Relations with Russia.

Mr. Wier, Consul of the U. S. at Riga, arrived at the seat of government on Sunday last, with dispatches from M. Harris, Charge des Affairs of the U. S. at the Court of Russia.

Mr. W. we understand, left St. Petersburg about the middle of Sept. at which time the Emperor had left St. Petersburg for Warsaw, on a journey to make some arrangements respecting the internal affairs of his Empire.

Of the contents of Mr. Harris's despatches, we do not pretend to any precise knowledge. It is understood, generally, however, that the arrest and confinement of Mr. Kosloff, the Russian Consul General, at Philadelphia, by a warrant from a Magistrate of that city, for an imputed criminal offence, had under the influence of Mr. Dashkoff's representations, created some dissatisfaction in the Imperial government, which manifested itself in the temporary prohibition of Mr. Harris from attending the Russian court, and in the orders which, it is already understood have terminated Mr. Dashkoff's mission in this country. These steps were taken, with evident reluctance on the part of the Emperor, and under an impression that it had been in the power of this government to prevent the arrest— in omitting to do which, there had been a want of that respect justly due to his character and station. The measures which he adopted were intended to evince his sensibility to an imagined wrong to give an opportunity in case of ascertained neglect on our part for due reparation to be made for it, or for the explanations which the case admitted if it should appear as the fact was, that there had been none such.

It is understood that as soon as our government became acquainted with the effect which was produced at St. Petersburg by the representation of Mr. Dashkoff, Mr. Coles the late secretary of the President was sent in the Prometheus, a public ship, with despatches to Mr. Harris, embracing such a view of the whole transaction, as it occurred, and with such unequivocal assurances of the friendly disposition of our government towards Russia as there was every reason to believe would be entirely satisfactory.

It is with pleasure we now state, that from the temper manifested, at the time Mr. Wier left St. Petersburg, by the Imperial Government towards the United States, there is every reason to believe that this affair will be amicably adjusted and that without delay.

To the Public.
Having understood that certain persons who are desirous of obtaining the appointment of Harbor Master, which I now hold, have circulated a report that I have resigned that office, and have by means of this story, prevailed upon several respectable citizens to recommend them as proper persons to fill the pretended vacancy—I beg leave respectfully to inform my fellow citizens, that I never did resign the said office which is all important to me in my old age, nor have I any idea of doing so. It is true that I have been afflicted with an illness which has prevented me from giving that PERSONAL attention to the duties of the office which I wished: but, thank God, I am fast recovering, and hope soon to be able to attend to business as usual.
In the mean time, I humbly trust, that my fellow citizens will not be impose-upon, to give their aid in promoting the views of my enemies, and thus to deprive me of the chief support of my old age.

good. Two thirds of the whole purchase money will be required at the delivery of the property, the balance in short payments with interest and secured by a deed of trust.
